NOTED EDUCATORS TO ATTEND FRENCH SUMMER SESSION

Professors Braunschvig and Sarvajean to Come for July and August

LARGE CORPS OF INSTRUCTORS ENGAGED

New Bulletin of Romance Language School to be Published Soon

Professor Marcel Braunschvig and Professor Henri Sarvajean, two of the most noted educators in France have been secured by Middlebury College for the coming summer session of the Romance Language school. Professor Braunschvig is an author of much note along educational lines and is an extremely popular lecturer as well. Professor Sarvajean is particularly noted as a lecturer and has also published numerous articles. Besides these two celebrities the college has likewise engaged for the coming summer a large and extremely competent corps of instructors. These will come from many of the most noted colleges of the east and middle west and will insure the continuance of the high standard of work and the extremely favorable reputation that has heretofore been attached to the Middlebury Romance Language Schools.

M. Braunschvig is regarded as the foremost teacher of French literature in France, being one of the pioneers in the reform of the teaching of literature and having written a book (Notre Literature etudiée dans les textes) which has become the standard text book on the subject. Mr. Braunschvig is a graduate of the Ecole Normale Supèrieure, Agregèe des lettres, Docteurès lettres, and Professor at the Lycèe Louis-le-Grand in Paris. After publishing his thesis for the doctorate, "Le Sentiment de Beau et le sentiment poètique" (1904), several works from his pen have appeared from time to time, notable among which are a book on aesthetic training, "L'Art et l'Enant" (1907), which has been translated into other languages, and the two recent volumes of the work already mentioned on French literature (1920-21) which have gone through several editions and reprints. In addition to his classes at the Lycèe Louis-le-Grand—founded by Louis XIV. M. Braunschvig has taught for a number of years at the Sorbonne, at the School for the Preparation of Teachers of French in Foreign Countries. He is also one of the most popular lecturers at the Thea-

Frosh Defeat Sophs in Interclass Game

The freshmen won over the sophomores 39-26, in the annual inter-class basketball game last night. The game was fast and furious, the sophomores jumping off to a lead in the first few minutes of play which was overcome at the end of the half by the freshmen, the score at that period being 19-16.

The sophomore team consisted of Hazeltine, captain, and Lance, guards; Eddy, center; Roberts and Patch, forwards. Substitutions during the game were Fales, Bicknell, Church, Creaser and Keene.

The freshmen line-up was, Westfall and Comiskey, guards; Arnold, center; Jones and Weser, captain. Substitutions were, Maynard and Marchukitus.

WOMEN ATHLETES STAGE FINE EXHIBITION IN GYMNASIUM

Folk Dancing, Games, Baseball Show Evidence of Much Preparation

The term of women's indoor athletics culminated in an exhibition given in the gymnasium, at three-thirty Monday afternoon. The purpose of the affair was not to give a practical and drilled exhibition but a sample demonstration of what is done in the gym classes. The program was as follows:

Drill work, folk dancing and games by the nine o'clock Friday section, in charge of method girls who have done practice teaching; marching tactics, drill and folk dancing by Miss Rosevear's section; demonstration of active exercises through imitation of animals, sports and occupations by the eight o'clock Friday section; three dances given by the playground girls, a group of relays, and a captain—ball game between the eight and nine o'clock Friday classes.

The execution of the folk dancing showed great attention to detail and an interest in the dancing itself. The Irish Jig, and the minuet given by the playground girls were delightul. The wand drill was especially artistic, showing much training and sense of rhythm.

The games were played with a great amount of pep and a variation in their choice was noticeable. In the games and in the many new forms of relays, much enthusiasm was shown both by the participants and the audience, As usual, the greatest amount of amusement was caused by the exercises in which a group imitated animals, occupations and sports. The interpretation of rabbits, rowing, chopping wood, and other exercises, was, to say the least, convincing. Some members of the class seemed gifted with a great amount of imagination.

The final part of the exhibition was a captain ball game between two of the sections, much interest being shown in this new sport.

Throughout the entire exhibition fine spirit of competition, good sportsmanship, and attention was shown. A great deal of praise is due the instructors Miss Young and Miss Rosevear for the great amount of training and interest which they have put into the work.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Y. W. meeting last Tuesday evening was under the auspices of the Maqua Club girls led by Rosaline Higgins '25. Different members took up the various phases of the camp, social, athletic and reilgious. The singing of Maqua songs ended the meeting.

BLUE TRIO DOWNS FORENSIC FOEMEN BY 3-0 DECISION

Judges Unanimously Give Middlebury Win Over Green and Gold

U. V. M. SENDS STRONG TEAM TO CONTEST

Home Team Defeats Upstate Rivals for First Time in Three Years

Middlebury's most forceful forensic artists met and defeated a picked team from the University of Vermont for the first time in three years on the platform of Mead Memorial Chapel Wednesday evening, March 25, before an unusually large and attentive audience. The Blue team argued on the negative side of the Supreme Court question, put forth very strong arguments, and easily won a unanimous decision over their rivals of the Green and Gold. Although Vermont sent down her strongest and most experienced team, Middlebury's trio showed a very much greater ability on the platform and presented many more and stronger arguments than their opponents.

The team representing Middlebury was composed of three of the most experienced speakers in college, Malcolm T. Anderson '25, was the first speaker on the negative, appearing for the second time this season on the home platform. He was a very forceful and convincing speaker, introducing Middlebury's side of the question in a very creditable and interesting manner.

The second speaker for Middlebury was Dana S. Hawthorne '26, captain of the team. He was a very able and forceful speaker, offering, during his speech a very well-worded refutation of many of the affirmative's arguments.

Oscar W. Cooley '25, summed up the arguments of the negative in decisive style and brought out the weak points in Vermont's case in a manner that showed his ability as a thinker and speaker.

John J. Leary '25, worked with the team as alternate.

The team from Burlington which was pitted against Middlebury in an endeavor to maintain Vermont's supremacy on the platform, was picked from a large number of trained and expreienced men; it consisted of S. Burton Heath '26 of Groton and William J. Herron '26 of Saranac Lake, N. Y., both of whom were on the negative team which lost to M. A. C. and won from Maine, and Leon D. Latham '25 of Essex Junction. Heath was the most experienced of the affirmatives trio, having been on the debating team for the past three years. The other two men had also had experience, and the team was the strongest possible to select from the Vermont squad. Mr. Herron was undoubtedly the most convincing speaker for the Burlington trio. F. J. Taylor '25 of Essex Junction acted as alternate.

The judges were Judge Clarence C. Cowles and Rev. W. A. Davison of Burlington, and Dr. H. I. Slocum of Middlebury.

An organ selection was given by Professor Louis P. Hathaway at the opening of the debate. President Paul D. Moody presided.

BULLETIN

Worcester, Mass., April 1.—The Middlebury College debating team won 3-0 last night in debate with Clark University.

SENIORS CHOOSE JUNIOR MARSHALS

Spencer, Chairman of Class Day Program Committee; Pres. Moody Honored

At a meeting of the senior class in the hemicycle last Wednesday afternoon. Alfred Knowles and Juanita Pritchard were elected from the junior class as marshals for the Commencement procession. This is one of the highest honors than can be given to a Middlebury man or girl. Both Mr. Knowles and Miss Pritchard have been prominent in campus activities. Mr. Knowles is a member of Chi Psi and Miss Pritchard of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

At the same meeting Alton Spencer was elected chairman of the class day program committee.

Since President P. D. Moody entered with the class of 1925, and took up his duties on that fall, he was unanimously elected to honorary membership of the class.

DEKES CAPTURE THE BASKETBALL TITLE FROM ALPHA SIGS

Defeat Their Opponents in Two Final Contests of Fraternity Series

The Dekes won the Interfraternity Basketball Championship of Middlebury College by defeating Alpha Sigma Phi last week in two fast and keenly contested games that were crammed with thrills, the scores being 34-20 and 22-16.

The silver cup significant of the championship offered by the Sage Society, was presented by Malcolm Anderson '25 to Donald Frederickson '25, representing Delta Kappa Epsilon, in the chapel on Monday.

In the second game of the final series on Wednesday night, March 25, the Dekes came from behind to triumph over their opponents, 34-20. The Alpha Sigs lacked the unified teamwork that helped them win the first game. The Alpha Sig's defensive work was very good as the Dekes were hard pressed to score in the first half. The Dekes came back in the second half with a whirlwind attack which they maintained until the final whistle blew.

Klevenow started the scoring with two foul shots and Donald with another foul shot. Then Klevenow hooked in two long field goals in quick succession thus giving the Alpha Sigs a considerable lead. The Dekes did not score for some time until Potter finally dropped a long field goal from the center of the floor. Westfall, Weser and Klevenow each sank a field goal before the first period ended with the Alpha Sigs, leading 10 to 4.

McChesney scored a field early in the second period but Papke retaliated a few minutes later with a hook shot from under the basket. Both sides presented a better defense during the second period as only four field goals were shot. Papke, Potter and Arnold each accounted for a goal from the field, although both sides missed many easy shots. The first half ended in a 12 to 12 tie.

During the third period the Dekes gained quite a lead on their opponents and when the period ended they were ahead 23 to 14. Their team work showed a very noticeable improvement over that which they displayed in the first half. Klevenow continued to hold his position as high point man for the

CUTLER AND ADAMS HEAD NEXT YEARS KALEIDOSCOPE

Class of 1927 Elects Department Chiefs of Junior Publication

FROST AND WHIPPLE WOMEN ASSISTANTS

Appointment of Remainder of Board to be Made After Vacation

The junior class at a meeting last Saturday afternoon took the first step toward the publication of the 1927 Kaleidoscope when Howard W. Cutler of Townsend, Vt., was elected editor-in-chief of the class publication. At the same time Charles O. Adams, of Middlebury ,was named for the position of business manager. The other members elected to the staff were Miss Frances M. Frost, of St. Albans, associate editor and Miss Helen Whipple of Lebanon, N. H., associate business manager.

Mr. Cutler is well qualified for his position through his experience as asisstant editor on the staff of the Campus. He has held this position since last fall, being the only sophomore on the board. He is a member of the Vocational Lecture committee and of the Dramatic Club. He is a graduate of Leland and Gray Seminary, Townsend, Vt., in the class of 1923.

Miss Frost holds the position of contributing editor on the staff of the Saxonian and is also a reporter for the Campus. She is a member of the English Club and of the Delta Delta Delta sorority, and a graduate of St. Albans High school with the class of 1923.

Miss Whipple is a graduate of Lebanon High school, and is well fitted for her position by her experience on both the editorial and the business ends of the Campus.

Mr. Adams has been active in undergraduate activities and is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. He is a graduate of Middlebury High school, 1923.

The assistants on the board will be chosen by those already elected and will be announced after the Easter recess.

PUZZLES FEATURE OF CHI PSI BALL

The annual Chi Psi ball was held Saturday in the form of a dinner dance, at the Playhouse, with dinner served at the nearby lodge.

The decorations were in the fraternity colors, purple and gold and centered around the cross word puzzle scheme. Booths ranged along either side of the hall were equipped with mammoth puzzles which afforded much amusement between dances. Balloons, horns, paper caps, spotlights and solving puzzles featured in the novelty dances.

The music was furnished by the Williams College orchestra.

The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. F. N. House, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bryant, Dr. and Mrs. S. S. Eddy, Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Stewart, and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Cushman. The representatives: Alpha Sigma Phi, Marshall Klevenow; Delta Kappa Upsilon, Donald Frederickson; Delta Upsilon, Herbert Reigleman; Kappa Delta Rho, John Britnell; Sigma Phi Iota, E. Murray Hoyt; Beta Kappa, Ralph Lilly and Charles Ryan. The committee in charge of the ball was composed of McClure, chairman, Purdy and Mullen.

Informality

Just a short time ago we attempted to point out that something might be done to improve the knowledge of those who wished to learn the fundamentals of etiquette. That applied to the student body in a more or less restricted sense. Now there has been brought to our attention a matter that is more prevalent on the campus—dress.

Middlebury has been always noted for the opportunities offered in the way of informal attire. Instead of having to attend classes in conventional college-cut clothes with white collars and topped by the latest style of hat or cap, the students here enjoy the freedom of sweaters and knickers. Some one has said that there is a place for everything, but that everything should be kept in its place. Unless we are careful we will allow this freedom to overrun our good sense and taste, something that must not be done.

We wonder how the debaters feel when, resplendent in evening clothes, they step out on the platform and face the audience which is generously sprinkled with leather jackets and lumbermen's shirts? It hardly seems the right thing to attend such an occasion in such a costume. Collars around which no necktie clings and which lie open at the throat may be conducive to comfort but not to urging the speakers to do their very best. Will not sloppy auditors cause a laxity in the debaters efforts?

The men of the freshman class have thrown themselves into the spirit of informal attire with reckless abandon. It is with the greatest effort that they can be made to make any pretense at dressing up for meals. We feel sure that they would not act that way in their own homes, nor would they like to have their homes judged by their actions here.

We feel that there should be some distinction made between the attire worn around the campus and that worn to evening entertainments. We do not advocate "putting on the dog," but there must be some costume just halfway between the most informal and the most formal. Let's use a little discretion in how we dress and not give people any opportunity to make rash judgments on our breeding and tastes.

Fraternity Politics

The feeling of friendliness and good will which pervades the Middlebury campus is usually rather marked as compared with many other similar institutions. In the spring of the year, however, which brings with it among other things elections for various offices and positions, the relations are apt to be strained and at times far from friendly. The reason for this rather lamentable state is that the College has ceased to come first in the minds of many of the students and the fraternity has superceded it, a position it was never intended to fill. It is quite possible that if fraternity politics did not play such a large part, in many cases indeed, governing the outcome of elections, the college and its many organizations, would be very much benefitted. In zeal for booming a fraternity it is sometimes forgotten that honor is not the only thing connected with filling a position, but that there is a large amount of service and hard work connected with it also, and no favor is being done either the candidate, the college, or the fraternity by pushing someone not as capable as a rival. The only sane and just reason for voting for any name is obviously a consideration of worth and ability, and not the size and shape of a pin on a vest or dress. This fact is so obvious that it is often overlooked and ignored. Where the feeling is sincere that the wearer of the same pin as your own is the best possible candidate for an office, certainly no one would question the ethics of boosting as hard as possible. It is often hard not to feel that those who are most closely associated with you and whom you consequently know the best, are the best fitted. However, blind loyalty backed by an unreasoning bias and prejudice is inexcusable, and even worse than that is the conscious and deliberate support of a man or a girl, with eyes open to the fact that there are others better fitted to serve.

If any fraternity's candidate is as fine and worthy as the loyal supporters think he is, it should be recognized and probably would be. If it is not, elections are a farce, as they have been often in the past. When pushed to the limit, fraternity politics really eliminate any need for formal elections, as the whole matter is decided beforehand, just who will support whom, and who will be in power this year, judging by who held the whip hand last. All this goes on, with not even a sense of humor to see the absurdity of the situation, or a sense of honor to see the lack of moral judgment.

A college community should be training for not only vocations, but avocations, and duties, and obligations to society. There is certinly a need in America for clean politics with fair play and justice as a slogan. Fraternities, if they are to be of any value other than social, should be in the lead in training and instilling some sense of the idealism that is so lacking in this age of materialism.

Our Modern Languages

In order to study the sciences with any degree of thoroughness and in any scholarly fashion, one must know one or more of the modern languages. We have our French schools and our Spanish schools. These languages are taught from the grade schools up. But one of the modern languages which has been taboo for a long time and which is essential in scientific research is the German language.

Some of Middlebury's graduates have gone to Harvard and other universities and found that language a requirement. They have either lacked it wholly or in part and have had a hard time to make it up. They have written back here and reported their experience in hopes that such a catastrophe might be avoided by those who follow them.

In last Saturday morning's Free Press there was an editorial on the subject of German. It said in part:

The World War has been followed by only seven years of peace, and yet we can hardly measure the tremendous distance nations have traveled in that comparatively brief period.

Seven years ago the average American was ready to shoot a German on sight. Any man or woman who suggested the resumption of the study of that Teutonic language in our schools was in imminent danger of being excommunicated from patriotic society, if not read out of civilization itself altogether.

Today in Vermont as elsewhere we are forgetting our martial hymns of hate. We are taking to our German again and learning anew, for example, the fascinating wonders of Grimm's law, which shows us how English and German have many words in common with the simple exchange of certain consonants or vowels, following a comparatively fixed law of evolution in philology. "And" in English becomes "und" in German, "Day" in English witnesses the change of both consonant and vowel into "tag" in German, and so on.

This is a good thing to think about. Let us look at it sensibly and see the need of the language. When it is finally reinstalled in our grade and high schools there will be a demand for teachers. Don't let an opportunity escape you. Keep up your German!

Our New Coach

In yesterday's Rutland Herald there appeared an editorial on the appointment of Marshall Klevenow, last season's captain, as coach of the varsity football and basketball team. He is referred to as a "fine athlete and therefore an ideal 'graduate coach.'"

The editorial pays tribute to "Dave" Morey as a "thorough-going gentleman-athlete," and upon the good fortune of Middlebury to have had him as coach of athletics.

Dekes Win Interfraternity Cup Baskeball Series

Alpha Sigs. Fales, Weser, McChesney and Arnold scored or the Dekes.

The game speeded up in the final period and many shots were thrown away, which in a less exciting battle might have flipped over the iron rim. Papke scored three field goals in this period. The Dekes continued to display good pass work which combined with accurate shooting won the game. The removal of Potter from the game due to an injury to his ankle was made up for by the consistent team work of the winners.

On Friday night in the final and decisive game of the series the score was tied at 7-7 at the end of the half, and it was again in the second half that the Dekes wrested victory from the fighting Alpha Sigs, 22-16. Both teams presented better defensive work than they showed in either of the other two games. Papke and Klevenow again won the scoring honors for their team, while the scoring of the Dekes was fairly evenly distributed, each man scoring at least one field goal. The Dekes excelled in passwork and shooting, especially in the final period when they made a notable rally and sent a fusillade of shots over the iron rim. The Alpha Sigs displayed their best defensive work in the second period, holding their opponents to a single field goal. On the other hand the Alpha Sigs were able to score but three points during this stage of the game, thus showing how closely contested this final combat was.

Papke was the first to score with a long field goal from the side of the court. Westfall and Donald each looped in a foul shot shortly afterward. Fales and Clowar each scored a field goal for their team during this period.

Field goals by Papke and McChesney, and a foul shot by Westfall were the only points scored during the second period. The Dekes exhibited good passwork, although they were able to score but one field goal. The first half ended in a 7 to 7 tie.

Four field goals were scored in the third period. The defense of both teams tightened up in this period, but many of the shots were wild. The score stood 13 to 9 in favor of the Dekes at the end of the period.

Both teams rallied toward the last when six field goals and four fouls were scored. The Alpha Sigs made a strong rally in the last few minutes of the game when Papke scored two field goals and Collins and Klevenow each accounted for a foul shot, but the rally came too late in the game as the Dekes redoubled their scoring efforts successfully.

Christian Association Meets

Donald D. Frederickson '26 spoke at the weekly meeting of the Middlebury Christian Association on last Wednesday evening in Hepburn Social Hall on the subject "The Revolt of Youth." In an interesting and appreciative talk he spoke of the fundamental points of the movement, its foreign aspect, and its relations to us.

At the meeting this evening President Moody will speak. Following the devotional services there will be a social hour and program.

Noted Educators Engaged For Next Summer Session

At Middlebury, Professor Braunschvig will demonstrate his method and technique of teaching French literature in schools and colleges. He will also give a course on French versification.

Professor Sarvajean, who will be accompanied by Mme. Sarvajean, is also an Agregèee de l'Universitè and one of the best known professors in France, now teaching in the Lycèe St. Louis, founded in 1280, and in the National School of Mines. Formerly, M. Sarvajean lectured at the University of Algiers, and after the war he gave a course to American officers on "La France et la vie en France". He is also an Officer de l'Instruction Publique, a member on the Jury of the University of Paris for the Baccalaureate degree and for the licensing of Lycèe professors, and has lectured in the summer sessions of the University of Paris and Strasbourg. He is the author of numerous articles on Comparative French literature, and will soon publish a book on this subject.

Professor Sarvajean's courses will deal with the Realism in French literature and comparative French literature.

Professor Jean Dequaire, Dean of the French School, in addition to the visiting professors from France, will be assisted by the following educators: M. Renè Guiet, of the University of Illinois; Mlle. Jeanne Badaire, of the Indianapolis High Schools; Mlle. Marie Cam, of Connecticut College; Mlle. Marie Cheval of Middlebury College; Mme. Dequaire, of Middlebury; Mme. Durand-Joly, of Dana Hall, Wellesley, Mass.; Mme. Guiet, of the University of Illinois; Mlle. Imbault-Huart, of Smith College; Mlle. Olga Longi, of the University of Illinois; Mlle. Thérèse Pérette of Bryn Mawr; Mme. Sarvajean, of Paris; Mlle. M. de Villele; and Mlle. Nollet, of Vassar.

The Bulletin for the 1925 Session of the Middlebury Romance Language Schools is now in press and will be ready for distribution in a few days.

With the return of Coach Morey the varsity baseball team has started on a hard workout. The infield looked especially good in practice: Incidentally the team has new suits to grace the season.

SPIRITUAL IDEALS OR THE MUNDANE IS VESPERS THEME

Bishop Samuel B. Booth Urges Right Choice in Life's Vocation

Bishop Coadjutor Samuel B. Booth, newly appointed assistant to Bishop Hall of Vermont, spoke at Vespers on Sunday, March 29, from Ephesians: on the text, "I beseech ye that ye be worthy of the vocation wherein ye are called." He introduced his theme by the statement that life is divided into two major occupations, one of which must be chosen by everyone. Each of us must choose whether his life is to be of the spirit or of the flesh, whether it is to be essentially idealistic or based primarily on the things of this world.

Bishop Booth symbolized the two vocations open to everyone as represented by the use of the first and family names. Our family name said he in effect, opens up our relation to ancient time in a biological manner and unites us to the great family of our ancestors. Our first name is the insignia of our personality, our freedom, our sense of values. The Christian name gives us membership in a family from above, the family of the spirit. We must decide which of these names shall represent our Destiny, which shall be in the ascendency. If "ye walk worthy of the vocation wherein ye are called," you will be seeking a Christian life, and your life will then have a definite, glorious goal.

The Bishop emphasized the fact that while preparing for our life-work, decision must also be cultivated. Said he, "The greatest decision to be made is whether or not the final value for us is to be of the earth or of the spirit, which is all for the purpose of glorifying God, a purpose giving unity to mankind. For essential Christianity is the giving of one's whole being to the Spirit. It calls for a degree and a training which will call to the best in young men and women.

"Let us simply ask ourselves which of our two names is to control our Destiny and remember that a Christian life makes one really worthy of the path wherein we are going."

LAST ACT OF APRIL PLAY IN REHEARSAL

"March Hares" to be Smoothest Drama Club Production; Cities Praise Satire

The last day of March found the last act of "March Hares" well into rehearsal. The cast has come into rehearsal. The cast has gotten into their stride and are working hard to make the production next month the smoothest ever given by the Dramatic Club.

The play is a satire in three acts by Harry Wagstaff Gribble. It was first presented at the Bijou Theater in New York and later taken to the Punch and Judy in the summer of 1921. Then it was revived at the Little Theater.

Many critics have criticized the play and they are unanimous in their vote that it is well worth attending. "It offers," says Heywood Broun, "some of the most agile dialogue that our theater has known and reveals its author as the possessor of a rare gift for nonsense. And his nonsense is not just for the sheer trick of the thing, but molded with satiric intent."

Newspapers have not been backward about their praise. The New York Telegram declares it "a delightful work, as good as Oscar Wilde at his best, sharply defined, brilliant and deliciously musing." The New York Herald remarks: "Incisive and sparkling dialogue, keen satirical perception."

It is hoped that the Middlebury audience will appreciate the play and will pack the Playhouse the night it is produced.

DRAMA REVIEW

Modesty

CAST

Henriette----------Margaret Doty '26
Jacques----------Richard Gould '28
Albert----------William Donald '28

"Modesty," one of the two one-act plays given at the meeting of the dramatic club last Thursday night, is a light and amusing play concerning the inconsistencies of a woman. Miss Doty took the part of this woman very well ,though we might wish that her voice were somewhat stronger. Mr. Gould and Mr. Donald played their roles very commendably. Miss Katherine Abel '27 coached the play and her stage settings are particularly worthy of favorable comment.

Dawn

CAST

Molly----------Edna Graham '27
Doctor----------Melvin Livingstone '26
Maggie----------Marian Kennedy '28
Dick----------Elliot Stearns '27

"Dawn", coached by Mr. Livingstone, was of a somewhat heavier type than the play preceding it. Its plot centered about a drunken husband, accustomed to beating his wife with a hot poker. Although his cruelty has caused the death of their only child, the wife clung to him with inexplicable devotion and was exceedingly disturbed at the doctor's intervention. None of the actors gave evidence of outstanding ability, but together they succeeded in interesting the audience considerably and startled it when the crash and the climax came. We can still see little Miss Kennedy as Maggie, with her long golden curls and childish dress, as she broke the news to Molly and the doctor that they were, like her, dead—and in Heaven, we hope. At least the cruel husband was not there.

BASEBALL TEAM PRACTICING HARD FOR FIRST GAMES

Preparation for Games at Easter Hindered by Rainy Weather

Although the baseball team has not been able to get on the field so far this season due to the weather, Coach Morey has held several rather strenuous practices on the campus this week. The regular infield has been working out along with the outfield, while all the men have had batting practice.

With the first game but slightly more than ten days away the team will be forced to work hard to reach mid-season form. Providence should furnish plenty of opposition to the varsity and Middlebury will do well to come out on the long end of the score. The Rhode Islanders pulled one of the best pieces of collegiate baseball last year when they turned Brown back by the score of 1-0 in twenty innings. Incidentally Dugan, Brown's star hurler of last year, who is now with the Yanks, pitched the game.

The other three vacation contests to be played in New York will undoubtedly be stiff tests for the team. College of City of New York, New York University, and Fordham comprise the trio and the blue and white team will have to fight hard to win. Undoubtedly Klevenow and Towne will do most of the hurling as they seem to be going well with a possibility of Witham or one of the Frosh try-outs starting one of the games.

Morey Pearl Orchestra Engaged for Junior Prom

Believing the music to be the vital factor in making a dance either a success or a frost, the 1926 Junior Prom committee have engaged one of the most famous and expensive orchestras ever brought to Middlebury, according to a statement give nout yesterday by the chairman of the Prom committee.

Morey Pearl and his orchestra will be the big feature of the Prom to be held next month. The orchestra is now playing at "The Tent" in Boston. They are nationally known by their Brunswick records which are some of the best made ,and which are released each month. The chairman was enthusiastic about the ability of this musical ensemble. "They are not just good—they are perfect!"

No further information was available at this time concerning plans for the other details of the Prom. The ideas of the committtee on the decorations and programs, etc., will be disclosed in another issue of the Campus, although it was inferred that they would be in keeping with the standard set by the music.

Junior Women Win Championship

The championship among the women's basketball teams was decided March twenty-fourth, when the Seniors were trimmed by the Juniors to the tune of 46-21. The champion team of the season has the following members: L. McDonald, capt, A. Winchester, B. Clark, C. Matthews, R. Barnes, D. Houghton, F. Smith and E. Goodale.

The girls picked from the four teams to be the All Midd team are R. Whitney '25, A. Winchester '26, L. McDonald '26, J. Thieve '27, M. Sedgwick '27, and O. Ohart '28.

The second team of the All Midd team is composed of A. Hatch, C. Tasker, C. Mathews, M. Birdsall, R. Southall and L. Randquist.

Sorority Holds Food Sale

A very successful food sale for the benefit of the Rose McGill Fund was conducted in the vestry of the Congregational Church last Saturday afternoon, between the hours of 3 and 6, under the auspices of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. The committee in charge included Juanita Pritchard '26, chairman; Eleanor Sprague '25; Mary Birdsall and Louise Covert, both of '27.

As many members of the track team as possible are planning to stay over the vacation to continue training in preparation for the season that opens soon after Easter.

LARGE SQUAD START SPRING PRACTICE

Over Fifty at Work on Signals and Formations; Scrimmage Delayed

Over fifty men answered Coach Klevenow's call for varsity football men last Wednesday. Since then the men have been engaging in spring practice on the campus, the football field being too wet to work on.

The men, many of them Frosh, have been practicing signals and formations in order to save this work in the fall. Klevenow and Morey have been working steadily with the back-field men drilling on the fundamentals. Reigleman and Potratz have been coaching the linemen in charging and the signals.

It is highly improbable that Klevenow will find time to have scrimmage men and of the field before Easter as the practice will end this week, and there is a great chance for injuries due to the condition of the

Over the mountain by a mile

Year after year, plucky explorers try to climb Mount Everest, the world's highest peak, 29,141 feet high.

With a G-E supercharger feeding air at sea-level pressure to the engine, an airplane pilot can go far higher. Lieut. Macready has reached 34,509 feet over Dayton, Ohio. He would have soared over Mount Everest with more than a mile to spare!

The tasks attempted for centuries in almost every form of human endeavor have been conquered with the aid of electricity, with more than a mile to spare.

The impossible today will be accomplished by men and women now in college. The scientist and engineer are doing their share. It remains for men and women entering upon their life's work to profit by the new opportunities that are constantly appearing in every profession and vocation in the land.

The supercharger is a turbine air compressor, which revolves as fast as 41,000 times a minute—the highest speed ever developed by a commercial machine. It is designed and made by the General Electric Company, which also builds the big turbines that supply electric light and power.

DEBATERS OFF FOR CLARK AND COLBY IN SEASON'S WINDUP

Prospects Are Favorable for Bringing Fresh Laurels to Blue and White

One of the strongest trios available from the Middlebury debating squad left here yesterday morning to take part in the last two contests of the most successful season that Middlebury has had in the forensic activity for several years. Last night the team met Clark University at Worcester in a debate which was originally scheduled for March 11 but which had been postponed on account of sickness. Today the team is enroute between Worcester and Waterville, Maine, where the season is to close tomorrow night with a debate against the strong Colby team. In both debates Middlebury is again to have the negative of the Supreme Court question.

With one exception the Blue's speakers are to be the same as those who made such a good showing in the debate with Vermont here last Wednesday. Jack Leary '25, who served as alternate last week is to be the first speaker in the final two debates, while Dana S. Hawthorne '26, and Oscar W. Cooley '25, are to be second and third speakers respectively as before. This is a strong trio and one which has a good chance of adding two more victories to Middlebury's record. Both Clark and Colby however, have also spoken on this question before, and will have strong teams on the platform.

These debates are to mark the close of a debating season which has been for Middlebury a success in every respect. The strongest team available has not been put into every debate but nine men have been given a chance to participate in intercollegiate contests. This is the largest number that has ever been used during a single season. The season's record includes victories over Springfield, Maine and Vermont, and defeats at the hands of St. Michael's, Tufts and M. A. C.

ZOO COURT TITLE WON BY BULLDOGS

The Canine Basketball Stars Nose Out the Wildcats In Furious Fray

The wildcat howled long and loud in agony on Friday evening when the Bulldog romped triumphantly over a gore strewn field to a 14 to 12 victory. In other words, Frederickson's far-famed 'Wildcat' basketball team was defeated by Twitchell's fighting Bulldogs in a snarling, biting scratching, howling battle in the gymnasium Tuesday night, March 27, in the preliminary to the final game of the Interfraternity Basketball Championship series. As was announced some weeks before, the game was played for a big "steak." Yes, big steak is correct, for the Wildcats will have to chop up a considerable piece of steer meat to feed such redoubtable fighters as the Bulldogs. The date of paying the forfeit has not been set yet, but it will doubtless be announced in a later issue.

The Bulldogs took the lead early in the fracas and maintained it fairly well throughout. Ryan showed true wildcat tendencies from the beginning, and although he was forced to retire to the kennel (sidelines) quite often because of fouls, he wrought considerable damage in the Bulldog ranks. Captains Frederickson and Twitchell added several innovations to the orthodox method of playing basketball which have been favorably commented upon. The results of this game show that the Bulldog and the Wildcat are fairly evenly matched.

The lineup:

Wildcats (12)		Bulldogs (14)
Long	f	Rapport
Leary	f	Twitchell Capt.
Frederickson	c	Mullen
Morris	g	Reigleman
Ryan	g	Eddy

Field goals: Long 3; Morris 1; Twitchell 2; Mullen 1; Reigleman 2; Fouls: Long 1; Ryan 3; Twitchell 1; Mullen 1; Reigleman 1; Eddy 1.

Referees: Frank and Knowles.

Professor Adams to Coach Tennis

Prof. Adams will coach the tennis team this season. This should be a great help to the varsity as he is especially good at developing doubles combinations, a field in which the team is sadly lacking. If he can form at least one pair that can win consistently, the team should have a good chance for a successful season with a repetition of last year's 4-2 victory over Vermont.

FROM THE SIDE LINES

The Dekes victory over the Alpha Sigs last week ended another Basketball season. The Sages ran off the interfraternity tournament with great success and interest was high thru-out the schedule. Whether any varsity material was uncovered is a matter of conjecture but without doubt interest in basketball has reached a new high point at Middlebury.

Although it is definitely decided that Barney Potratz will not handle the freshmen football next year no successor has as yet been announced. Reigleman has bee nmentioned as a possible coach and it is very probable he will have the position. Besides coaching the Frosh he would also be able to help Klevenow with the varsity line, as he has had plenty of experience under the present system.

The baseball team came through midsemesters without sustaining a casualty. However Pete Crawford who seems to have a good chance of working part of the games in the box was declared ineligible. There is no doubt that he looked the best of the Frosh hurlers.
